

Quintous E. Crews, Jr.
Rear Admiral, Medical Corps, United States Navy

Quintous E. Crews, Jr., was born in Port Arthur, Texas, 19 September 1929, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Quintous E. Crews, Sr. He completed his undergraduate school at the University of Texas, Austin, Texas, in 1951. After receiving his degree of Doctor of Medicine from the University of Texas School of Medicine, Galveston, Texas, in June 1955, he served a rotating internship during 1955-1956 at Good Samaritan Hospital, Phoenix, Arizona.

Upon entering the naval service in July 1956, he received his first assignment as Medical Officer, Naval Dispensary, Long Beach, California. He was re-assigned in 1958 to Naval Hospital, Oakland, California, to commence residency training in Radiology, after which he became a fellow of Therapeutic Radiology in 1961 at the Los Angeles Tumor Institute, Los Angeles, California. He was reassigned as Assistant Chief, Radiology Service, Naval Hospital, Great Lakes, Illinois, until 1964 when he assumed the duties as Chief of Radiology, U. S. Naval Hospital, Guam, Marianas Islands. In 1968 he was assigned as Senior Fellow in Radiotherapy at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, Houston, Texas. He was assigned to Naval Hospital, San Diego, California, in 1969 as Head of Therapeutic Radiology. He became the Chief, Radiology Service, in 1970, a position held until 1976 when he was transferred to the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Maryland as Director of Clinical Services. In July 1978, he assumed command of the Naval Regional Medical Center, Long Beach, California. He was selected to flag rank in February 1981 and returned to Washington to become the twenty-fifth Commanding Officer of the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Maryland, in September 1981. The National Naval Medical Center was disestablished on 1 September 1982. He then became the first Commander of the newly established Naval Medical Command, National Capital Region, Bethesda, Maryland.

Rear Admiral Crews is a Diplomate of the American Board of Radiology in Radiology. In 1974 he was selected a Fellow in the American College of Radiology. He served also as Navy Counselor to the American College of Radiology and Councilor for the Navy in the Radiological Society of North American. He maintains membership in the following Societies: American College of Radiology, the Radiological Society of Therapeutic Radiologists, California Radiation Therapy Association, San Diego Radiological Society, and Association of Military Surgeons of the United States. Additionally, he has held the following appointments: Associate Clinical Professor, Department of Radiology, University of California, San Diego; Assistant Clinical Professor of Radiology, University of Southern California School of Medicine, Los Angeles, California; Member and Vice Chairman, Joint Review Committee on Education in Radiologic Technology; Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences; and Specialty Advisor in Radiological Medicine to the Surgeon General of the Navy.

Rear Admiral Crews wears the Navy Unit Commendation Ribbon, the National Defense Service Medal, the Humanitarian Service Medal and the Legion of Merit.

Rear Admiral Crews is married to the former Maybelle Bierschwale of Belton, Texas. They are the parents of one son, Quintous E., III, and three daughters: Cynthia, Patricia, and Victoria.
